02:39 PM

On April 27, 2006, the California Public Utilities Commission (Commission) adopted a policy requiring AT&T California and Verizon California to reduce the Access Charge imposed on long distance carriers. To make up for this price reduction, the Commission also authorized these carriers to increase prices for other services, such as Local Service and Custom Calling Features. The Commission is now considering whether to extend this policy to other carriers, such as _____[carrier's name]. If the Commission does extend this policy to other carriers, your rates for local calls and custom calling services may go up. _____[carrier's name] estimates that it will need to increase local service rates by ___% to offset revenue lost due to the access charge reduction.
